Seattle is hosting a first round judging center for the National Homebrew Competition once again this year. We will be judging the first weekend of April at the Pyramid Alehouse across from Safeco Field. All judges are needed to turn out and provide quality judging for 750 entries, with the flight winners (1-3) going on to the final round in Philadelpha, PA (in conjunction with the National Homebrewers Conference). In addition to judges, we need help with entry processing (on Sunday afternoon, March 31st) and stewards to help the competition run smoothly. If you can help with the main judging and stewarding, please register at http://wahomebrewers.org/nhc2013 . For entry processing, please use the contact links at the main registration site to send the organizers a note.

Location: Pyramid Alehouse, Brewery & Restaurant 1201 First Avenue South Seattle, WA 98134

Judging Dates: Friday, April 5th 5:30(ish) (1 session)

Saturday, April 6th, 8:30 (2 sessions)
