When working with dry malt extract, do not add it to a pot with a rolling boil as it will clump up and take a while to dissolve. If you bring your pot off a boil and then add the DME, it will mix in much more smoothly.